

Call for proposals for RIMS Joint Research Activity (RIMS Workshops (Type B))

The Research Institute for Mathematical Sciences (RIMS), Kyoto University, is calling for proposals to organize RIMS Workshops (Type B).

1. Purpose and overview of RIMS Workshops Type B

Under this Joint Research Activity, a group comprising a few researchers, including at least one foreign researcher and one Japanese researcher, conducts joint research at RIMS for a few days to about one week. Proposals are solicited through the year and chosen by RIMS, with the aim of promoting international joint research activities in which foreign researchers expeditiously conduct joint research with Japanese researchers. Here, “foreign researcher” means a researcher whose affiliated university or institute is located outside Japan, and “Japanese researcher” means a researcher whose affiliated university or institute is located in Japan.

In case of possibilities for continuing the collaborative research after or before a RIMS Joint Research Activity, it is suggested to apply for RIMS Workshop (Type B) along with the initially intended research category.

2. Workshop expenses

The maximum amount of travel expenses of each RIMS Workshop (Type B) (hereinafter, Workshop) which can be applied for is 400,000 Japanese yen. (Travel expenses for transportation fees between the home country and Japan, transportation fees in Japan, accommodation fees, and per diem can be paid to invited overseas researchers.) At request, “Kôkyûroku” (proceedings of Joint Research Activities) could be published.

3. Online Workshops

As the current situation regarding COVID-19 outbreak has the possibility to continued into 2021, RIMS encourages workshops to be conducted online via Zoom for which the formats and guidelines are being prepared (Excluding RIMS long-term researchers)

For details, please refer to the website “RIMS’s Response to the Novel Coronavirus \(COVID-19\)”.

It is also possible to plan online workshops upon application for the joint research activities. please refer to the attached " How to Write the Proposal for the Joint Research Activity" for details.

Please note that it may be required the workshops to be either "canceled, postponed, or switched to be held online" depending on the infection status of COVID-19 one month prior to the schedule of the research activities,

Please contact the collaborative research section for further inquiries.

4. Workshop period and venue

The Workshop must be conducted sometime between April 2021 and March 2022. The venue for the Workshop should be RIMS. It should be conducted on weekdays in principle and the following days should be excluded: Saturdays, Sundays, Japanese national holidays, Kyoto University's holidays (June 18, August 16-18 and December 29-January 3), and the periods of RIMS's events (late July – early August and late August).
